The eyes, if you didn't know, denote the position of the streetcar operator and the overhead signal lights. Thanks go out to Raphael Balserna for capturing the photo. Balserna told us: The bus driver tells me that when the light turns green at the Cully connector he'll slow down to give the streetcar driver a bit of a heads-up and to give him a few more precious seconds. But the streetcar driver knows, and tells the bus driver, when he has to make the emergency stop. I imagine the streetcar driver was sitting at the intersection with his head popping up occasionally to catch a glimpse of the approaching bike

The nature of the sexual interaction represents a potential major behavioral risk factor that influences the development of many common malignant diseases including breast and cervical cancer. Current research indicates that (a) there are discrete risk factors for each of these diseases, (b) the etiologic agents that are transmitted can vary, and (c) it is generally accepted that the biological factors that play an important role in the development of these diseases are the same. It is clear that consistent condom use by all sexual partners can reduce the possibility of transmission of the viruses that play a role in the development of these diseases. Because of the role of high-risk sexual f30f4ceada
